The latest contribution to the now very extensive "literature" of the Russo-Chinese negotiations about Manchuria is a memorial sent by Viceroy YUAN SHIKAI in reply to a command from the Empress Dowager to learn the opinions of the representatives of the Powers concerning the Convention which the late LI HUNG-CHANG had almost concluded with M. LESSAR at the time of his death, and to report the result of his investigations to her. Our contemporary the North China Daily News gives the following as the gist of Viceroy YUAN'S reply to the Empress Dowager's command: The consequences entailing upon a convention with Russia concerning Manchuria are fraught with serious danger to the Empire, as they affect not Russia alone, but also Great Britain, the United States, Germany, and Japan to a very great degree. If this Government then ignores the interests of the other Powers, and merely tries to meet the wishes of a single Power like Russia, the former will naturally imitate her example and how will China then be able possibly to satisfy the inordinate demands of the others in the future? My humble opinion, then, is that the other Powers shall be secretly consulted and a refusal be sent Russia. Backed as we will then be by the moral support of the other Powers, it may be, perhaps, that Russia will not dare to act contrary to the wishes of the majority and will not therefore try to obtain her convention by force. China will not then incur the displeasure of the other friendly Powers, whilst, on the other hand, it will be of incalculable benefit to the Empire.

The Viceroy's diplomatic answer should serve its purpose. It has been obvious all through the Manchurian negotiations that the only way to appeal to the reactionary and pro-Russian party in the so-called Government of China was to play upon their fears of having to make fresh surrenders to the Powers other than Russia. No sentiment of care for the Empire seems ever to have restrained them from giving up to Russia the practically complete control of Manchuria. But that this sacrifice should be followed by similar concessions to other nations would not at all suit the reactionaries' book. YUAN SHIKAI presents the case to the Empress Dowager in a fresh and forcible guise. An useful commentary on his memorial is conveyed in Reuters' telegram of the 16th instant, in which it is stated that "Japan has notified the Chinese Government that she will require equivalents for all advantages given to Russia in Manchuria." Great Britain and the United States are also said, in conjunction with Japan, to be exerting strong pressure on China to secure the submission to them of any treaty concerning Manchuria. What the nature of this pressure may be, it is not easy to guess. It is to be trusted that the threats in event of China's refusal are of a tangible nature. Nothing short of the most determined attitude can inspire the proper fear into the timeservers who are willing to continue the late LI HUNG-CHANG'S policy of ceding to Russia. Were it not for the worthlessness of those who still hold sway at the Imperial Court, it would be impossible to withhold sympathy from the Chinese Government in its position toward Russia.

After repeatedly being goaded into refusing Russia's demands, it always finds remaining to be faced the figure of Russia with a new Manchurian Convention in hand. The several abandonments by that Power of her terms only led to the presentation of others repeating substantially the same demands. The Manchurian Convention has been a veritable hydra, and China is no Hercules to strike off each head as it rises. It requires therefore that the "moral support" which Britain, the States, and Japan are prepared to give to China in meeting the monster shall be of the strongest possible character. Naturally the diplomatists of the three countries will not reveal at the present moment the steps which they are taking to inspire China with the strength which she lacks herself to fight against aggression. We have to take on trust the statements that they are displaying vigour and exerting all legitimate pressure. In view of the lack of certainty with which we are bound to put up, the statement of Japan's notification to the Chinese Government is welcome.

Yesterday H. M. S. Arctura, left for Shanghai, and H. M. S. Redpoll for Canton. The German cruiser Bussard arrived from Nagasaki.

At the Magistracy yesterday, Loi Kuen (22), a carpenter, was sentenced by Mr. Kemp to one month's hard labour for having stolen a quantity of brass and copper from the Naval Yard on Wednesday.

Kwok Tak Tung, the ringleader in the armed attack upon a boat at Capatun on 13th August last, resulting in murder, was hanged at Victoria Gaol yesterday at daybreak. The two younger men who were convicted along with him have had their capital sentences commuted to life imprisonment.

The Siu Wan Pao advocates the hastening of the construction of the Lu Hsu line in consequence of the foreign Powers having seized every avenue from Peking to the sea. The only thing left for China, says the native paper, is to construct the Peking-Hankow railway with all possible speed; then she will have a route to the sea.

Mr. W. N. Pethick the late Li Hung-chang's private secretary, on hearing of Li's serious illness, it appears, hurried from Chefoo to Peking, but did not arrive in time to see him. Since then he himself has been slowly sinking, and it is said that he cannot last many days longer. Mr. Pethick's illness has been of some months' standing.

The Togo Kisen Kaisha (Oriental Steamship Co.) intimate the inauguration of a regular service between Hongkong and Manila. The Co.'s well-known steamer the Rosita will have been placed on the service and will make her first run from this port to Manila on Tuesday next at noon. Passengers by this vessel are assured of every comfort and accommodation.

George Gimmering, a coloured man, upon whom sentence of banishment from the Colony had been passed, was arrested in the Western Market on Wednesday for being drunk and incapable. At the Police Court yesterday, Mr. J. H. Kemp ordered his detention in prison for twelve months for returning to the Colony before the expiry of his term of banishment. This makes Gimmering's twenty-third conviction here.

Speaking at Aldershot on the 23rd ult., Lord Roberts assured the Mounted Infantry that Lee-Enfield rifles were equal, if not superior, to Mausers.

On the 27th ult. a great fire took place in Gresham Street, London, E.C., between St. Martin's-le-Grand and Old Jewry. Fifty-three firms were affected. Only the remarkable efforts of the city firemen prevented a dangerous conflagration.

At the end of last month the Duke of the Abruzzi, cousin of the King of Italy, while driving a motor-car on the road near Turin at a pace of 40 miles an hour, struck a milestone, and was thrown into an adjoining field. The Duke was unhurt, and had a marvellous escape.

The pecuniary success of "Christian Science" (so called because neither Christian nor scientific) is astonishing. Dr. Dow, the founder of Zion City, has been assessed in Chicago as owning $100,000. Mrs. Mary Eddy, the founder and discoverer of Christian Science, has been assessed as being worth 7,000,000 dollars. Such facts, if taken alone, would speak ill for the intellect of America.

Certain "Fonians" recently founded the secret society of "The Midnight Sun" in Dawson City and Skagway, with the avowed intention of placing the Klondyke goldfields under the United States Government. The Canadian authorities were early cognisant of the conspirators' purpose, and took measures accordingly. The Fonians, finding their plans known to the police, fled across the frontier into the States.

A London telegram of the 26th ult. says:—A San Francisco diver has located the wreck of the steamer Rio de Janeiro, which struck a rock when entering the Golden Gate on 22nd February last. The United States Government is endeavouring to recover the gold which the sunken steamer was carrying, and the documents which were in the possession of Mr. R. Wildman, formerly American Consul-General at Hongkong.

The Sydney Daily Telegraph, commenting on the match between Mr. MacLaren's team and New South Wales, says:—As the visiting team has not developed bowlers of any special formidableness so far, and as our own bowlers have greatly bettered expectation both here and at Adelaide and Melbourne, the Australian chances in the greater matches are very encouraging, even though the English batting should eventually prove more effective than it has been hitherto.

It appears that an Englishman (and not an American millionaire) has purchased Battle Abbey, formerly one of the seats of the Earls of Rosebery, at public auction, for £200,000. Battle Abbey, near Hastings, was founded by William the Conqueror in commemoration of his victory in that neighborhood in 1066. The late (and last) Duchess of Cleveland, Lord Rosebery's mother, resided there for many years, buying herself with the famous Roll of Battle Abbey, which is said, to be almost a complete list of the Conqueror's companions-in-arms nearly 1000 years ago. The estate, including the domain of the ancient abbey, extends over 6000 acres. It was thought likely that an American would be the purchaser.

The following paragraph is from the Japan Times:—"Some of the geishas in the Yoshiwara lately organised a foreign-style music band called the Azumafuji-Ongakai. When invited to assist at a banquet they will put on uniform of petticoats and red-coloured kimonos at a moment's notice, setting aside the samisen as well as their graceful kimono and obi. To cheer up, further, the crowd, a brake drawn by two horses decorated in a most gorgeous manner, flying a big banner which shows the name of this new band (their regimental colour?), is reserved always for use on the occasion of making a procession at any time. About 18 geishas from Shimabashi and Kobancho are said to have newly enlisted. This will be perhaps the first organisation of the sort entirely conducted by geishas." There is something suggestive of the Salvation Army in the description above.

As has already been announced, Dick Burge, the well-known pugilist, has been arrested on a charge of complicity in the extensive frauds on the Bank of Liverpool at Liverpool. The police have traced £100,000 of the stolen funds to various banks, where the money lies to the credit of different bookmakers. Burge, according to a later telegram, has been charged with uttering forged cheques for £38,000. No less than £30,000 has been traced to his and his wife's banking accounts. It transpired that Goudie, the bookkeeper, habitually sent forged cheques to a number of other gamblers. The cheques were drawn upon an account kept with the bank, and were afterwards presented through the clearing-house and various banks. As bookkeeper, Goudie failed to debit the forged cheques to the account. He circumvented the daily check with fresh transactions.

A correspondent writes to N. C. Daily News, from Newchwang, that earlier in the year a representative of the Mahomedan Mission from Turkey visited Ashio, 70 li from Harbin, and stayed for several days with the large body of Mahomedans there. He carried his own cooking utensils, plates, etc., and insisted on his dishes being used by himself and others even when invited out as a guest. The local Mahomedans felt rebuked by his greater scrupulousness in the observing of the rules of purity. He encouraged them to show a bold front in adverse times, as he could quickly come to their help. He showed them pictures of balloons, giving them to understand—though they may have misunderstood him—that he would come to their aid if they were oppressed, by means of such modern inventions. Except that he wore a turban, he was in Western dress, and he came via Vladivostok.

Some of the Boer prisoners have been ordered to teach their less literate brethren at the Boer Camp at Ahmednagar.

Plague mortality in Bombay at the end of November, for the second week in succession, was showing a slight decline.

The war vessels at Amoy on the 14th ult. were the Japanese cruisers Takatsuki and Suma and the U. S. battleship Kentucky.

It is stated that Major-General Baden-Powell will remain in England till after Christmas, when he will resume duty at the front.

The illness from which Mr. A. J. Balfour has been suffering was influenza. All engagements were cancelled, by the advice of his doctors.

Major-General Doward, K.C.M.G., arrived at Shanghai on the 12th inst. from Weishaiwei, to take command of the British garrison there.

A British force left Karachi on the 1st inst. for the Perso-Mekran border to act in conjunction with Persian troops in punishing outlaws.

A number of British commercial representatives have arranged to visit Russia in January in order to ascertain the progress made in agriculture, and the prospects of the meat supply there.

It appears that the steamer Barrig, which was recently detained by the Customs authorities in the port of London, owing to the suspicious character of her cargo, was intended for a Colombian gunboat.

Successful experiments have been conducted with the United States submarine boat Falt n. She was submerged for 15 hours. Her officers assert that they could live below for a week comfortably—which seems quite long enough for all practical purposes.

SUPREME COURT.

Thursday, 19th December.

IN CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

BEFORE HIS HONOUR A. G. WISE (ACTING CHIEF JUSTICE).

ROBBERY.

Chan Yan and Wong Shing were charged with robbing and wounding an old pedlar on the road between West Point and Aberdeen on 29th November. They pleaded not guilty.

The following jury was empanelled:—Messrs. W. J. G. Whittier, J. S. Walker, A. E. S. Alves, J. S. Gubbay, U. L. G. Koch, R. B. Cooper, and W. T. Marlow.
The Attorney-General (Hon. W. Moigh Goodman, K.C.) stated that the complainant Mit Sui was a pedlar whose business it was to sell socks, for which purpose he travelled from West Point to Aberdeen every day. On 29th November when returning home in the evening his suspicions were aroused by the movements of four men on the road. One of them went in advance and the other remained behind. Becoming nervous, he increased his speed, whereupon the men in the rear set upon him, and assisted by the fourth robbed him of the contents of his purse. They then ran off. He pursued them crying "Robbery, robbery." The robbers separated. The two prisoners walked on the road in front of him until they were ultimately stopped by two men who had been attracted to the spot by his cries. When arrested they offered the excuse that they had seen a robbery committed and were going to seek assistance. Some of the stolen property was found in their possession, but the bulk of it was carried away by the two men who escaped.

Evidence was afterwards led.
At the conclusion of the evidence the jury found both prisoners guilty as libelled and his Lordship sentenced them each to 5 years' hard labour and to receive two whippings of 20 strokes each.

BEFORE HIS HONOUR T. SERCOMBE SMITH (ACTING PUISNE JUDGE).

A POISONING CASE.

Choi Kan Tsai, an ill-dressed Chinese woman, was charged with having administered poison to six persons at Toishan on 26th and 27th October. She denied the charge.

Hon. Dr. Ho Kai, who (instructed by Mr. F. B. L. Bowley, Crown Solicitor) conducted the prosecution, stated that the accused was indicted on four counts. Under the first she was charged with having administered arsenic to four members of her family with intent to commit murder, and under the second and third with having administered poison with intent to endanger life and with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The fourth count referred to the administration of arsenic to two different people altogether. The accused was a daughter-in-law of an old farmer with whose family she lived. The family consisted of sons, daughters-in-law, and grand-children, and a nephew. On the 25th October the prisoner's husband brought home some fresh fish and cooked it. This was eaten by certain members of the family and no evil effects ensued. On the following day the accused cooked the remainder of the fish and set it down to be partaken of by the farmer, one of the daughters-in-law, and her son and an adopted daughter. After eating the fish all four became ill and vomited. What remained of the fish was sent next day to the house of an uncle as food for the cat. The uncle and his wife thought it a pity to give such apparently good fish to the cat, and ate some of it themselves. Both became ill afterwards and also vomited. Then the police were informed. Sergeant Macdonald secured a bowl in which the fish had been. This was submitted to the Government Analyst, who found in it 2 1/2 grains of arsenic. One grain of the poison was sufficient to kill a man. Evidence would be given to show that the prisoner was on bad terms with her family and that she had on one or two occasions threatened to poison one member of the family. She explained the presence of the arsenic in her house by saying that she had got a quantity from a pedlar for the purpose of killing the rats with which the house was infested.

When the several witnesses had been examined, the jury retired. After an absence from the Court of an hour and ten minutes, they returned a verdict of not guilty on the first count and guilty of the remaining three and recommended the prisoner to mercy.
His Lordship said that the maximum sentence on the three counts was 10 years' imprisonment with hard labour. He would pass sentence of 5 years' imprisonment with hard labour on each count, these sentences to run concurrently, giving effect to the recommendation of the jury.

LORD ROSEBERY ON THE SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

Lord Rosebery, speaking at Chesterfield, said that our honour and the future of South Africa require us to bring the war, as vigorously and as successfully as possible, to the promptest and most complete conclusion. The Liberal party was now free altogether from alliance with the Irish, who had openly ranged themselves with their country's enemies. Independence for the Boers was out of the question, and the relentless prosecution of the war was necessary, but though it was impossible for the British Government to negotiate with the Boer generals, overtures for peace from the exiled Boer Government should not be rejected. He advocated the granting of a liberal amnesty to the enemy, and concluded by placing his services at his country's disposal. His watchword was national efficiency.

HONGKONG POLO CLUB.

The final match in the tournament for the R. A. Cup was played on Saturday, the 14th inst. The R. A. officers dispensed hospitality with a lavish hand, and the officers of the R. W. F. had kindly provided their excellent band. The proceedings were graced by a large number of the fair sex, and the weather favoured them, as, without having any sun, it was pleasantly warm. It is a pity that the teams were not more even, for the Club won too easily for the enjoyment of the spectators, in spite of the plucky efforts made by the R. W. F. team. It should be remembered that the R. W. F. have only half the regiment here, while the Club team represented about the strongest combination that could be selected from the whole of the members.

On the ball being thrown in the Club got possession and play was confined almost entirely to the Fusilier end, Orpen hitting the first goal at the end of 13secs. When ends were changed Labertouche put the ball through after a total of 2mins. 22secs. Whitehead taking his turn next. Time, 4mins. 58secs. Then Orpen scored again at 5mins. 41secs., and Cruikshank twice at 6mins. 21secs., and 6mins. 41secs. The Club hitting was really good and beautifully straight.

On resuming, a goal was hit after 2mins. 20secs., but by whom we cannot recollect. A minute later Cruikshank got a subsidiary; time, 3mins. 30secs. The Fusiliers then pulled themselves together and a combined run by Lloyd (who was working very hard and well) and Dickinson resulted in a subsidiary which ought to have been a goal. Time, 4mins. 20secs. At 6mins. 40secs. Cruikshank got another subsidiary, and at 7mins. 20secs. another was hit. The last chukha was entirely at the Fusilier end, their ponies being quite done, while those belonging to the Club, none of which were asked to do more than two chukhas, were quite fresh. During this chukha Labertouche hit one goal and Cruikshank three goals and two subsidiaries. The Club thus winning by 11 goals and 5 subsidiaries to 1 subsidiary.

SANDAKAN NOTES.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

Sandakan, 10th December.
DULL TIMES.
Business continues exceedingly dull here, and there are no encouraging signs for the near future. There may be something better to report after Chinese New Year, but it is hard to see just now where the improvement is to come from. It is not pleasant to have such a dull report to make, but it will do no good to fence with facts.

ECCENTRIC GOVERNMENT WAYS.
In spite of this, however, the Government continue in their peculiar ways. When the new Customs Tariff came into force, exporters of coconuts protested against—amongst numerous other duties—the duty of 15 cents per hundred on coconuts, arguing that these were transit goods, and should certainly not be taxed if duly bonded in the ordinary way. This was at last admitted, and shippers went to the expense of bonding the nuts. Now the Government have gone back on this, and demand duty on all nuts exported, explaining that bonding meant that the natives bringing the nuts from Cagayan would be allowed to bond, if said natives also exported the nuts to Hongkong, the bonding being cancelled if the nuts were sold or traded in any way in this territory. This is a new principle, and, if carried further, will mean that practically all bonded goods will carry duty, for, of course, most articles now bonded here are sold by the importers, the very small minority being goods sent here merely for transhipment to other ports, where the merchants only act as forwarding agents. We do not say the Government will do this, but the principle involved gives them the power to do so.

ANOTHER SCHEME.
The Government have another scheme in progress which promises further to interfere with and hinder trade. They are now building a godown at the back of the wharf, on the completion of which all goods for transhipment will have to be bonded inside the Customs gates, no private bonded warehouses outside being allowed, as has hitherto been the case. How the Chinese are then to sort birds' nests and camphor is not explained, but presumably the Government will insist upon duties being paid when the goods are taken to the Chinese shops, and will grant rebate when the goods are exported. This spells great inconvenience to traders, for it will mean that capital will be tied up so long as such goods remain in this territory, no unimportant consideration in a struggling country such as this.

RECENTLY A Government Notification appeared in the Gazette to the effect that between the 1st and 15th days of December all dogs found straying in Sandakan would be shot, regardless of license. The exact wording ran as follows:—
"Under Sec. 11 of Proclamation No. IV of 1901, it is hereby notified that all dogs found straying in the streets, roads, or public thoroughfares of Sandakan, or beyond the enclosures of the houses of the owners thereof, will be destroyed if so found during the period from 1st to 15th December, 1901. This notice applies to all dogs irrespective of the question of license."
Against this sweeping notice the public had the temerity to appeal, addressing a memorial to the Governor—signed by all the non-official European residents here, and presented by the Unofficial Member of the Governor's Council, Mr. W. G. Darby. The reply received was as follows:—

Government House,
North Borneo,
30th November, 1901.
MY DEAR DARBY.—I have received the memorial about dogs. With the usual moderation peculiar to Sandakan my answer is termed "arbitrary and inhumane." It is remarkable that exactly the same law has been in force in Singapore for 30 years. With their larger experience the people of Singapore are large minded and know that Government is obliged to legislate upon many matters for the good of the greatest number. I intend to enforce this dog order four times every year for 15 days at a time and it is not so harsh an order as the chain and muzzle order that was enforced in England for at least a year without remission. The dog pest in Sandakan is intolerable and if I am successful in teaching Europeans and natives to exercise some control over their animals for two months in a year and to learn a little more of their duty towards their neighbours I shall be quite content to be considered arbitrary and inhumane.

If the signatories to the memorial don't know the meaning of the word "enforce" let me enlighten them. No dog walking with and under the control of the owner will come under my order. In other words dogs are not to wander at large (which is the dictionary meaning of to stray) from the 1st to 15th Dec.

In your covering note you refer to the police. All I have to say on that point is that I have entire confidence in Capt. Harrington carrying out the order with discretion.
Yours very truly,
W. W. BIRCH.
With all due respect to the Governor, we are inclined to doubt that "the same law has been in force in Singapore for 30 years." Is it, we ask, the rule in Singapore to put arms into the hands of a couple of men and tell them to shoot all dogs on sight, "irrespective of the question of license," so long as the dogs are not with, and under the control of, their owners? Are the dogs there shot in the public streets with the attendant disgusting sights? Does not a license protect a dog from being shot dead, outside its owner's gate even? Of what use is it then to purchase a license at all? But apart from these questions, even if all these things are done in Singapore, must it follow that the law is a just one? As to the "carrying out the order with discretion," we have had one example; on the first day the notification was enforced a gun was fired into a Chinaman's house, destroying his "Joss" picture, for the value of which he has successfully claimed against the Government. One word in conclusion: whilst we are free to admit that we have many things to learn from Singapore, we think we will be borne out in saying—if this letter is a criterion—that fact and common courtesy are not in the list.

AMERICAN HORSES—E-RAYS WITHOUT A VACUUM—BLOOD-SAVING—SUBVISING MADE EASY—THE SELENIUM CELL—GREEN AND BLACK TEA—SPECIES DUE TO TEMPERATURE—A MINE OF COLOURED TIMBER—TREK-TAPPING BY ANTS.

The early horses of the United States, whose remains have been found in the eastern gravels and western preglacial sands, have been assigned to at least twenty-five different species. The careful revision by Mr. J. W. Gidley of the American Museum seems to show the following as the valid species: Equus fraterculus, small horse of the south-eastern States; E. complicatus, about the size of an ordinary draught horse, from the southern and middle western States; E. occidentalis, of the size of the preceding, from California; E. pacificus, a very large horse of middle California and Oregon; E. conversidens, from the Valley of Mexico; E. tex., the smallest true horse, also from the Valley of Mexico; E. simplicatus, from Western Texas, closely resembling E. asinus; E. pectinatus, from the Fort Kennedy bone-cave of Eastern Pennsylvania; E. Scotti, a long-faced, small-sized, ass-shaped horse from the Staked Plains of Texas. The type of the last-named species, now in the American Museum, is the only complete skeleton of a Pleistocene horse discovered in America. A new species, E. giganteus, Gidley, is the largest of all, its teeth being a third larger than those of any draught horse.

The X-rays of M. A. Rodon are produced directly in the air, without a Crookes vacuum, under the simultaneous action of ultra-violet rays and an electric field. When an electric field is set up between the plates of an air condenser and a pencil of ultra-violet rays is directed upon one of the plates, the Röntgen rays are propagated along the direction of the lines of electric force of the field and have greatest activity if the ultra-violet radiation is in this direction.

The blood collected in great quantities in abattoirs is by a rapid German process dried by spraying into a hot-air current in an oven-shaped chamber. The powder collected in the receiver is claimed to be tasteless and contains 74.8 per cent of digestible albumen.

An ingenious surveying instrument is the tachometer-theodolite upon which Dr. E. Hammer, of Stuttgart, has been at work since 1893. It is designed to show the observer in a simple manner both the distance of any selected spot and the difference in altitude between that spot and the point of observation. The telescope of the apparatus is focussed by moving the object-glass, and an essential part is a carefully constructed diagram whose image, in lines that shift to right or left as the telescope is tilted up or down, is thrown into the eye-piece by a pair of prisms. The changes in the place where the lines cross the vertical wire in the eye-piece indicate the inclination. Adjustments are so made that the displacement of one line multiplied by 20 shows the difference of altitude in metres, and another displacement multiplied by 100 gives the distance. From experiments at 250 metres, it appears that the maximum error in distance may be reduced to about a fifth of one per cent, with correspondingly greater average accuracy in elevation.

The photo-electric properties of selenium offer striking possibilities to the student. In use of several experiments described by Mr. J. W. Gidley, a selenium cell is mounted in a drum resembling a theodolite, and is placed in circuit with a telephone, when intermittent illumination of the selenium is made audible in tones of corresponding pitch. In another experiment, an acetylene flame is vibrated by speaking into a microphone, the vibrations being reconverted into sound by the selenium cell and telephone. This experiment is varied by enclosing the selenium cell in a box with three small incandescent lamps connected in series, these lamps being fed by 16 accumulators and inserted in the secondary circuit of an induction coil, with a carbon microphone in the primary circuit. Speaking into the microphone sets up variations of luminosity which are changed back into sound by the selenium cell.

The colour of tea has been investigated at the Agricultural College of Tokyo. In making green tea the leaves are steamed as soon as gathered, while black tea results from fermenting before drying. The black tea contains much less tannin. It is found that the tea-leaf contains an oxidizing enzyme, destroyed by moderate heat, and in fermentation this enzyme changes the tannin into a brown product.

The influence of temperature in changing animal life seems to be even greater than it has been understood to be. Many years ago Weismann showed that certain butterflies vary in colour with the temperature of the season in which they appear, and M. Standfuss, of Zurich, has now proven that a single kind of butterfly may be made by artificial temperatures, to give distinct varieties peculiar to cold, hot and temperate regions respectively. Kept at a high temperature, pupae of Machao, of temperate regions, produced a variety known in Syria during the hottest months. At about 40 deg. F., pupae of Vanessa urtica, common in Switzerland, produced Vanessa polaris, of Labrador; at about 100 deg., the variety ichneumon, of Corsica and Sardinia; and at about 110 deg., the variety ichneumon, sometimes seen during hot summers in temperate regions. Varieties produced from other butterflies remain to be identified.

A remarkable deposit of petrified oak has been "mined" by a Russian timber merchant during the last half-dozen years. It exists in a river of South Russia, in layers three or four deep scattered over 150 square miles; and its most striking feature is its variety of colours, supposed to be due to the variegated soil of the river bottom. Not less than twelve shades of pink, blue, yellow and brown have been noted, each log having its own uniform shade. The logs taken out have ranged from 40 to 200 feet in length and 15 to 20 inches in diameter; and it is estimated that more than 150,000, averaging 70 feet, remain.

Investigating the gum of German East Africa, M. Walter Busse has found that the production of gum arabic is due almost entirely to ants. These creatures make innumerable borings in the bark of the hard-wood acacias—few in these of soft wood—and the exudations from these wounds are the drops of gum.

The earth's atmosphere is found to be orange, the sun's to be blue, and a problem for the astronomer is to determine the real colours of the planets besides the earth.

A GREAT UNRECORDED CLIMB.

The vast, solemn arch of unshewn rocks known as the Natural Bridge, Virginia, was once the scene of Elihu Burritt's immortal "One Night the Highest." The prose poem is known to all English people. How a stripling of spare years cut his way upwards, niche by niche, in the face of the living rock.

How, in the end, his knife falls ringing at his agonized parents' feet; his head reels; his eyes start; and with a last convulsive effort his arm drops into the welcome noose. He is saved! Similarly, here is a tale of a lad of 17, who climbed down. And then—when the expert watchers abandoned all hope—he climbed up, and was saved.

At 17 years, Ernest Spary, a healthy, strong youth, fell ill. Violent pains in the stomach, anorexia, and that organ swollen. His appetite left him, and a nasty, dry, teasing cough tormented him.

He had begun the descent. He took to his room. "For three months he was confined to his bed," his mother, Mrs. Spary, says, "he was reduced almost to a skeleton, and was so weak that he could not walk across the bedroom. A doctor rode five miles every week to see him, at 10/6 a visit, and said he was suffering from peritonitis and was going into consumption." "The doctor said he had peritonitis and was going into consumption."

The disease developed into worse. Despite medical attentions, Ernest thinned down to a skeleton, and grew so emaciated that "his spine became curved." Then the doctor decided to pack him in a plaster of Paris jacket. In fact, he told Mr. Spary that his son was actually dying, and that hope was gone.

Mrs. Spary, in an extremity of desperation to save him, thought of Mother Sybil's Syrup, "which," she told us on November 18th, 1888, "we had used for years as a family medicine." The rapid descent was completed. Ernest had reached from bright, good health to that dark approach known as "No Hope." Now for approaching daylight!

"I tried the Syrup," writes Mrs. Spary, "and after the first dose Ernest said he thought he felt a little better," and little by little, niche by niche, he climbed upwards. "In five days he was able to sit by the fire. One day, as he sat in his room, he was suddenly taken violently sick, and vomited a large quantity of 'mattery fluid.'"

"This protest of a strengthened stomach saved him. He said he felt that a weight had been removed from his right side, and, of course, partially digested food, acid fluids, and ulcerated matter are a dead weight."

He climbed up in grand style now, with the aid of Sybil's Syrup. The doctors came to pack him, but they couldn't pack a man whom they found up reading. They examined him, instead, and found that he was rapidly gaining flesh. The pains gradually grew less severe, the cough ceased to toss, Sybil's Syrup was still faithfully taken, and in two short months he was as well and strong as ever before in his life.

This true account was given to me by Mrs. Spary, Holly Cottage, Newchurch West, near Chappell, on November 28th, 1889. There are, one might say, a thousand symptoms of dyspepsia; but I want to briefly examine this wonderful record.

One man in seven, it is said, dies of consumption. That is not true. One man in every seven may die of so-called consumption. If indigestion stops blood-making the lungs must suffer, and the tissues of the body naturally die and waste away.

The truth is dyspepsia can simulate consumption like a spider simulates death, or an insect counterfeits a dried twig. The most practised eye is deceived. Strike at the root; that is the only remedy. Take Sybil's Syrup. Remove the sole cause.

Clear the stomach and bowels for action, and leave counterfeits consumption, heart disease, asthma, and uric acidity to nature to deal with. She knows how to cure you. Remember also that this record climb could never have been written if Mrs. Spary had even hesitated or changed her mind. [60]

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.

WITH THE PUNY AND MANDARIN
PRONUNCIATION.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Pinyin pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principles hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those rest margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—
Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000 whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words and upwards of 300,000 Chinese characters.

Again, despite all the grammars and other elaborate works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parries resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
